G'day Nigel,

Just wanted to tell you what I think of Ocloc.

First, its a shame you didn't come up with the idea 10 years ago, it would have reduced the piles of green posts scattered around the vineyards of Australia by several thousands of tonnes.

We bought Oclocs as soon as I saw them early this year. The product makes so much good sense. Our old routine was walk through the vineyard locating broken posts, flagging them, cutting the staples, removing the post, putting out replacements, slamming them and then restapling.. Now, its come across a broken post while doing other work, flag it and then Ocloc it. In our sand the job can be done any time and I reckon it costs about $18 in product and time verses $40+ the old way.

I hope you and your partners make a lot of money from it, we are saving a lot.

Kind regards

Martin Lightfoot
